Baldwin County Economic Development Alliance hires new project manager

Robertsdale, Ala. – The Baldwin County Economic Development Alliance (BCEDA) is pleased to announce that it has hired Alex Doleac as project manager. With a focus on job creation and retention, Doleac will direct a range of business recruitment projects aimed at driving continued economic growth within the county.

Doleac brings to his new role both practical experience and an advanced education in the field. A Hattiesburg, Mississippi native, Doleac pursued both undergraduate and graduate studies at The University of Southern Mississippi, earning his Master of Science in economic development and tourism in August 2015. He also holds a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies and is a Magna Cum Laude Honors College graduate. For the past year, he served as project manager for the Economic Development Team at the Area Development Partnership in Hattiesburg. As part of his graduate studies, he also interned with the FloridaWest Economic Development Alliance in Pensacola, Florida.

“We are happy to have Alex join our staff,” said BCEDA President and CEO Lee Lawson. “Alex’s high educational achievement and foundational experience in economic development make him an exciting addition to our team.”

Doleac joins Lawson, Research Analyst Tanner Jones and Operations Manager Karen Glover as part of the BCEDA team.

"The Baldwin County Economic Development Alliance has a longstanding reputation for facilitating immense growth," said Doleac. "Over the past decade, the growth in population alone validates the exciting momentum already in motion here in Baldwin County. I am humbled and excited to be a part of that momentum and am ready to work alongside a talented BCEDA team as we continue to bring new job-creating opportunities to the communities we serve."
